"To us Jim's teaching is similar to the non-dualistic philosophy of Eckhart Tolle and other modern teachers, but unlike Tolle, who had an unexpected spontaneous awakening, Jim's came after years of spiritual seeking. His book, End Your Story, Begin Your Life, makes his teaching easy to relate to and his guidance down-to-earth and helpful."

Lyra Mayfield & Charlie Stein, Boulder, Colorado, USA

During this weekend, Jim will guide us through the simple yet revolutionary practice from his new book, which will enable us to:

*Quiet our minds and experience real inner peace.
Gain clarity and insight into any problem.
Free ourselves from anxiety and pressure.
Be happy with things as they are, even as we seek change.
Enjoy harmonious relationships with others.
Be more productive and successful in our work.
Awaken to our true purpose, and have a lot more fun...!*

We will meditate, dialogue, and explore the three-step practice: learning to welcome our shadow, our suffering, whether it is self-doubt, anxiety, guilt, fear, or some other 'demon,' because it is showing us where we are not yet free; noticing the story behind it and reminding ourselves that we are not the story, but rather the luminous awareness that creates the story; and then breathing and relaxing into the presence, the beautiful beings that we always are. From this place of now we access our deepest creative consciousness to solve whatever challenge we may be facing.

About Jim/Private Sessions

Jim's gift is the ability to transmit the experience of conscious presence, of wisdom, love, and freedom, to those around him. He has taught his work at many venues, including Esalen Institute in California, where he will be teaching again Sep 7 - 12, 2008. His web site is www.jimdreaver.com. For a private session, call him at 707-829-9551, or email jdreaver@aol.com.
